KALS WINTER 2017 MULTIPLE SESSION COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

The Aging Reversal: an Ayurvedic Approach to Wellness and Vitality

$40.00

The body constantly rebuilds itself, very little of it is older than two years old, why then do we age? Ayurveda, the basis of the course, is the Vedic understanding of managing human physiology and keeping the body young and fit. This introductory course is loaded with practical, enjoyable protocols that may be easily introduced into daily routine.

Instructor: Paul Colver

Min. 8 Max. 20

Dates: Wednesdays 10:00 am to noon, January 11 to February 15, 2017

Location: North Shore Community Centre, Games Room

News and Views

Come to the Concert

$50.00

"Come to the Concert" will continue with a 7-week series of introduction to the music in the remaining orchestral and chamber music concerts of the 2016 - 2017 KSO 40th Anniversary season. Rod will continue to demonstrate how knowledge and familiarity can help enrich any listener's enjoyment. Each class is scheduled a few days before the performance. You will hear a brief overview of the structure of each work, information on composers, the evolution of musical styles, and the growth of musical genres. The first class will be an introduction to the balance of the season. We will explore questions about aspects of the music and performance and develop more fully the musical and historical background to increase your enjoyment of the music.

You can also be involved in the KSO search for a new Music Director to replace long-time Director Bruce Dunn. Four people have been shortlisted and each candidate will conduct one of the Masterworks Series orchestral concerts. Audience opinion of the candidates is being gathered to aid the decision. These classes may sharpen your judgement as you help determine who will direct the KSO in the coming years. Concert tickets NOT included.

An Introduction to Energy

$15.00

With all the media talk.... are you confused about energy? This presentation may help you understand a bit more about what's happening and where we may be headed. Energy is more than a technical subject, it can also be financial, political, environmental and emotional. Anyone with an interest in being better informed about energy will get something out of this. You will appreciate energy as more than just turning on the lights or filling the car up with gasoline.

Session 1 - Energy production and use in BC, Canada and the World - a historical look to understand trends and consider where the future lies. Topics include defining energy, primary energy resources, their production and conversion, constraints to energy production by demand, and environmental issues and climate implications, etc. We will also begin to consider energy transformation going into the future.

Session 2 - An unbiased look at a few current technologies and how to integrate these technologies with our current infrastructure. We'll consider wind, solar, nuclear, hydro, and carbon capture. Time permitting we may touch upon options for transportation of fuels such as compressed hydrogen.

Instructor: Ralf Luthe

An Update on The Roma of East – Central Europe

$10.00

The Roma of East-Central Europe have become the object of increasing political and scholarly interest since the disintegration of state socialism in 1989 and the enlargement of the European Union. The biggest European minority, they suffer disproportionately from poor health, unemployment, low levels of formal education, inadequate housing and discrimination. They constitute Europe's most politically under-represented and most stigmatized population. Since 2012 the governing body of the European Union has made the integration of Roma into mainstream society an important goal of EU policy. Dr. Scheffel will examine the changes that the rural Roma have undergone over the last twenty years in their attempt to partake of the modernization of the surrounding society.

Instructor: Dr. David Scheffel
